Decorating halls, spirit week, posters, markers, painting faces, and wearing school colors were the ways students and staff showed their school spirit.

"The fans present at the homecoming game were very impressed with the field," said Mr. Ervin. Thursday evening before homecoming the leadership, Spanish clubs, and all grade levels hung around after school to decorate our hallways and the field. Students were pleased with what they saw the following morning. "The hallways looked great, I was very pleased," said Tricia Catlett.

Friday during 7th period, the entire school participated in a pep-rally. For entertainment Ms. Cesarski and Ms. Oliver arranged a 3-on-3 basketball game and relay race between fall sports and the administrative team. "The 3-on-3 basketball tournament was really different than anything they've done before," said Tiffany Darden.

During the pep-rally the different grades were shouting out their grade level. This helped hype students for the game. "It was different from Arlingtons, I've never experienced anything like it before," said Kelly Hill.

Naomi Mack proudly supported the class of '98. Naomi Mack not only showed her school spirit by cheering, she ran for Senior Class President and played on the basketball team.

Shouting and cheering were the ways the junior class hyped up for the big football game. Dameka Dunlop, Alicia Baxter, and Tina Mathis held the junior class poster, to show their spirit.

During Mr. Shadiow's speech he thanked everyone for being hyped for our homecoming game. He hoped to see everyone packed in the stands cheering the Redskin football team to a victory.

Jennifer Sparks had school spirit written all over her face. Jennifer Sparks was also an athlete and understood the importance of support and faith in sports.

Shaun McClain, senior, participated in spirit week by painting his face. McClain also participated in drama club and is an artist.

Studying fish

One hundred and ten gallon tanks consisting of tilapia and catfish could be found in the Star room. Two years ago Mr. Fox and Leo Grissum in charge of industrial technology for all IPS donated grant money to the Star Academy to build the aquaculture system .

Star students and former FFA adviser Mr. Gustafson spent a Saturday to build the system. The aquaculture system consists of three tanks for the raising of tilapia and catfish. They are fed twice a day and the system is cleaned once a year. Experiments are also done with the system which include pH, dissolved oxygen, nitrate, and NH4. Mr. Swinford, biology teacher, said, "The system is waiting for the imagination of the students and teachers and will always be an important part of Star biology."

CRYSTAL WALKER

Stacey and Shakay Ratcliff rode the bus to school each morning. They caught the bus at 6:30 a.m.

Jillian Hull, Star Chapter Sentinel, participated in the District 8 Kick-off. The upper-classmen showed new members the available opportunities through FFA. "It teaches us opportunities within FFA such as $1.2 million in scholarships," Hull said.

David Duff and Andy Wright took care of the fish each morning by cleaning the tanks and feeding them.

One Night to Remember

"Prom night has finally arrived," Bryan McFall, junior, said. Students believe it is one of the best nights of their lives.

Students spend months planning for prom. They rent their tuxes, buy their dresses and go out and have fun. They want to make sure they look stunning in their tuxes and dresses. "Yes, I went because I thought it would be fun and I felt I should take advantage of the opportunity to do something different," said Ricky Velandingham.

Students go in style, they rent limos, cars and rode around town just to be noticed. Students also encouraged their friends and relatives to go to prom. "Strap a tux on them and tie them down to the car (limo)," said Bryan McFall. "After all, that's what Lisa Grube did to me."

Prom was held at the Murat Temple in the Arabian Room. During prom, they had a garter ceremony and the students received gifts like memory books and a glass engraved with the theme which was More than Words.

George Jones and Danyelle Favors reigned as king and queen. Leo Johnson and Nicole Dycus reigned as prince and princess. Leo Johnson said he felt very good when they announced him as prince and Nicole Dycus was surprised. "Prom night could be one night you won't forget. If you miss that night, you'll regret it later," Nicole Dycus said.

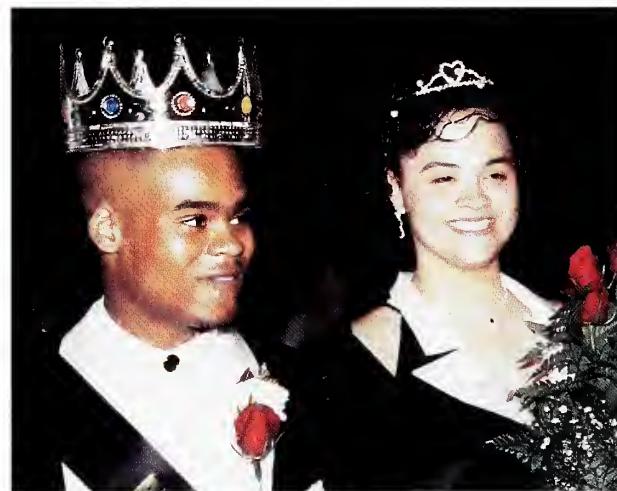

ROBERT RATCLIFF

Tina Mathis, sophomore, and Tricia Catlett, junior, created a trend by attending the prom as just friends.

Diploma in ...Diploma out

Graduation is one of the high-lights in everyone's high school years. From the decorative stage, to caps and gowns, a lot of hard work and detail go into every step of the preparation process. Perhaps the most important and controversial decision made is whether or not the ceremonies will be held indoors or outdoors.

On June 12, 1997, graduation was held indoors. "I thought it (graduation) went wonderful.

Everything ran right as scheduled and the weather was beautiful," explained Ms. Mann. The weather outside may have been simply gorgeous, but many seniors were uncomfortable in the heat of the gymnasium.

Ms. Mann passed out 59 scholarships to the graduating class.

Genola Vaden, senior (98), said, "It was too hot and it was really crowded, so that made it uncomfortable for a lot of people.

Each location certainly has its pros and cons. Having an outdoor graduation would allow more guests to attend, the people in attendance would be less crowded, and as senior, Naomi Mack said, "It would at least change the setting and give us more space to decorate."

The down side to an outdoor graduation would be the weather and the sound system.

Mrs. Huck explained, "Unless you have a superior sound system, no one hears anything. We would have to rent one, and that could mean spending a large amount of money." For now, the '98 graduation is scheduled to be held in the gymnasium.

Nicole Ashworth, senior, said, "No matter where the ceremonies take place, you can rest assure, that indoors, outdoors, rain or shine, Manual High School's graduation will be, only the best!"

MINDY HALL

Jeremy Parsley waited to walk the last steps through the gym.

Only the Best

Honor students Kristy Olsen and Helen Gebre-Yohanes received Academic Distinction from Mr. Lucas on June 12.

Two-hundred and thirty Manual Redskins awaited to enter the gym to receive their diplomas.

Christian Ingram, valedictorian, received the John Hampton Holliday, Jr. Scholarship Grant from Mrs. Huck.

Two-hundred and thirty graduating Redskins waited patiently through the ceremonies on June 12, 1997.

Leftovers

Leftover students came face to face with school and a new frame of mind from their summer break.

In light of Superintendant Esperanza Zendejas' and the school board's decision to return to district/neighborhood schools, students knew that when they came back they would see the new district students piling up in the classrooms where old freinds use to be. Mindy Hall, junior, had to call or write most of her old freinds about her fun-filled or instead concert-filled summer.

Hall as well as Chris Eastes, Andrea Goodall, Kristi Mote, Crystal Spalding, and Dorothy Stearns went to about 10 concerts including, Kevin Sharp, David Kersh, Mila Mason, Wade Hayes and a Lonestar concert. Mindy explained how she, as well as other concert going fans, just "can't let go" of their wonderful summer.

On a wilder note, Ms. Oliver and Cassandra Thomas, junior, decided to take the word fun to the absolute extreme and literally reached for the sky this summer by bungie jumping. Ms. Oliver, newspaper/yearbook adviser felt the rush of summer when she shot from the ground going from 0-70 m.p.h. and reaching a height of eight stories.

Cassandra Thomas jumped into summer with both feet. While shocked, scared, surprised, and excited all in one Thomas said, "I would do it again if I got the chance." She plans on skydiving from an airplane in the near future.

Also, while somewhat more toned down but not dull, Chris Eastes, junior, sang at the state fair.

About 50% of the students spent their summer working. Jennifer Pitts, senior, spent countless hours of her summer working at Noble Roman's. "We have a fun environment," she said.

BRANDY SMITH

Chris Eastes sang, "Check Yes or No" by George Strait at the state fair.

Mindy Hall went backstage after the Kevin Sharp concert. "If Kevin Sharp is in town, you can be sure I'll have a backstage pass," Mindy Hall said.

Only the Best

Cassandra Thomas strapped on the gear that would allow her to jump from a crane and bungee during the state fair.

Ms. Oliver and Deb Raikes slingshot from a bungie ride in Panama City, Florida. "We got on thinking we would do it once and the operator sent us up again without warning," Oliver said.

One size fits all

Five years old, three feet-six inches, lunch boxes, snotty noses, sitting Indian style and naps were initiated to all IPS high schools. Superintendent Zendejas made four kindergarten classes attend full day in a high school instead of an elementary school. Zendejas made her decision to show her commitment to all day kindergarten. There are four kindergarten classes throughout the IPS high schools.

“She (Zendejas) had to go through the state legislature to show how committed she was in wanting the kindergarten to go all day,” said Mr. Poole, principal.

He thought her decision would create positive effect on the students. “They will get more experience in being in high school so they’ll know what it is like when they get here,” said Mr. Poole, “And also the students are getting a positive image and gaining responsibility.” However, the disadvantages may have a negative influence on the kindergartners. Melinda Ray, senior, said, “The younger kids will get a negative image, because some of the students act like they have no home training.”

Mrs. Denman said, “I think that it is LUDICROUS! Kindergarten should not be in a high school setting, especially riding the buses with the older students.”

The kindergarten class is at the end of the music wing in room 138. Which consists of 23 students and two teachers, Mrs. O’ Keefe and Mrs. DeLashmit. They do not have a playground yet, but they walk over to Garfield Park when its warm. The kindergartners, learn the same as any other kindergartners “We learn how to color, ABC’s, we play with blocks and trucks,” said kindergartner, Charles Bronson.

An unforgettable night

Despite three injuries and a surprising defeat, homecoming night was unforgettable.

On October 3 the hallways at Manual were filled with school spirit. Everywhere students dressed in red and white, hallways and doors decorated and of course the ever-popular painted faces. "I wore red and white, got my face painted and I brought poms-poms to show my school spirit," said Re-aisha Willis.

During the pep rally cheerleaders, faculty, football and volleyball players competed in a relay race which the football players won.

Redskin fans Barbie and Woody enjoyed the game from the hood of Erin Ash's car at Homecoming.

The pep rally hyped students up for the game. "The pep rally gave me a chance to represent my sophomore class. It inspired me to go to the game," said Tazae Hughes.

The beginning of the game was off to a rocky start. Dean Vinson, Edriguez Smith, and Austin Sultzer were all injured. The injuries were minor. At half time, the score was 14-20 in favor of Broad Ripple. The spirits of the fans were lifted when Chris Arnold and Erin Ash were crowned king and queen.

"It was the best experiences of my life. It was great," said Chris Arnold. "I felt so nervous but yet so happy," said Erin Ash.

The dance was cancelled because of the D.J. "I was upset because I had already bought my ticket and I wanted to get my dance on," said Todd Gibson.

By the end of the fourth quarter, the football players left the field with a slow walk and sad manner because they lost by a score of 20-50.

"I was disappointed because it was my senior year at homecoming. We started out good, but it just didn't go our way," said Dean Vinson.

Football players Morgan Grey and Tommy Humphries had a little too much fun during the wheelbarrel race at the pep rally. Their team won.

The football players showed excitement as they cheered on the 3 on 3 hoops at the pep rally.

The cheerleaders spread cheers throughout the homecoming pep rally on October 3.

The Manual Redskins' Band and flag girls approached the field to show their school spirit.

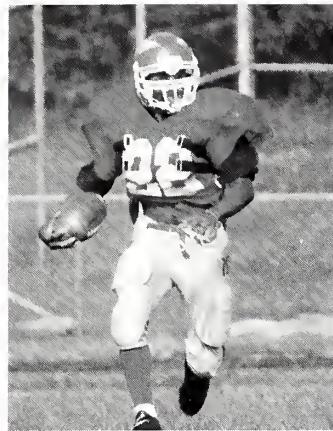

Jennifer Sparks, distance runner, listened to advice from Norman Nalls, relay team, on where to land on the kick off board for the long jump.

Tia Mooney, freshman, was a contender on the varsity team. "Tia showed talent and improvement as a freshman competing against upperclassmen in the 300 hurdles," Oliver said.

Antwan Owens, junior, carried the ball down the field against Arlington August 29. Football had four games before the first day of school, September 2.

Jennifer Childers, senior, concentrated on her next stroke. Golf began in the summer with practicing every week during summer break.

Athletes show ability

Students are starting to enjoy participating in more and more sports.

Students participate in several activities because they believe that without it, school just is not the same. "I think that everyone should participate in sports or activities because it is fun," commented Brian Floyd.

Another way to look at it, is becoming involved in school is a good way to have extra time to spend with friends. Some people play more than one sport and then there are the ones who just play one sport. "I like to participate in more than one activity because I like to get involved in school," said Michelle Gann, seniors. "I also like to have extra time to interact with my friends."

Participation is a way to show school spirit and to enjoy being a part of the school. Sports are becoming one of the most important activities in student's lives. "Sports are important because they are fun and you get to work with your team," Mike Baldwin said.

Grading on a Curve

Softball embraces new teammates

Determination, endurance, and discipline are just some of the words you could have used to describe the attitude of the softball players. All this from mostly new players, some not having ever thrown a ball.

Not only did the team show off their unity when game time came around, but it could also be seen through their dedication in practice. When the girl on deck and the rest of the batting lineup cheered for players on the field, pitchers from tough schools like Tech knew that they weren't just up against one Redskin. "The skill level of the players have drastically improved," announced Assistant Coach Swinford.

The reason for this was the younger players followed in the footsteps of seniors like pitcher Alisha Hummel and catcher Julie Williamson. Most of the girls on the team had more than just a single sport interest. They weren't softball players; they were athletes.

"Compared to the previous seasons, this was a much more fun season with a lot more talent," commented senior Carol McKinney. "If future seasons can be like this one, Manual Softball has a lot to look forward to."

ROSE BRAY

CAROL
McKINNEY

Carol McKinney was a starting outfielder. She watched the opponent very carefully for her reaction to the pop fly that was just hit.

Up against the wind, Kristy Trammel took a forcible swing at the oncoming ball.

JULIE WILLIAMSON

Julie Williamson started her softball career at George Washington where she played second base and outfield. After the closing of GWHS she was one of three players who continued to play softball and volleyball. She finished by being a team leader and starting catcher.

ALISHA HUMMEL

Alisha Hummel was the starting pitcher her junior and senior year. Pitching involved many hours of practice. During practice, pitchers were required to throw into the wall in order to improve their pitching style.

Terah Groves, freshman, prepared for the game against Tech. The team warmed up by stretching, throwing overhand and taking infield.

Looking a little frustrated and stressed, Carol McKinney and Lillian Wafford concentrated on the words of advice their coach gave the team during one of their big games.

Amy Crowe knew that this was a softball game, however, she decided to put on a little dance for the crowd anyway.

A Reloading Year

Making plans to improve

Six players on the All-IPSAC team, two on the All-City teams, and nearly defeating highly ranked Roncalli were some of the highlights.

"For the first time in several years we could consistently put nine players on the field that could all contribute," said Coach Alter, "The loss of our seniors will take a lot of our team away."

While the 7 win, 18 loss record fell short of the team's goal, Alter believed this was the best overall team that Manual has had in several years. Although the squad will lose four highly contributing players, they are confident that players like Tony McKinney, Jeremiah Ingram, Brian

"We had a much better season."

-JEREMY PARSLEY

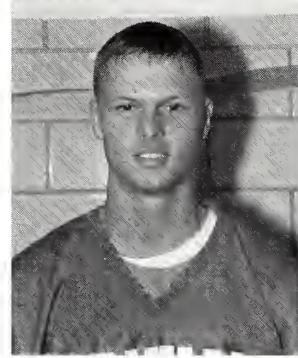

Scott, and Nick Davis will step up to lead the team to a victorious 1998 season.

"Nick and Brian will be better defensively and Tony will be the best hitter out of the four," said Jeremy Parsley, co-captain. "All four are capable of making All-City next season."

Todd Ballard made the All-City First Team as a designated hitter and was named the team's MVP. Ward was given the Outstanding Pitcher Award and made the All-City Second Team as a pitcher.

Alter's goals for next season are to win IPSAC, improve, have players who are good students and citizens and have fun.

RICKY VELANDINGHAM

"(Alter) is a good coach and he knows what he is talking about. He only wants what is best for the team. When we go into a game with our heads up and ready to go then we come through."

Jeremiah Ingram will be one of the key players trying to fill the shoes of the graduated seniors. He is expected to be a key defensive player.

DAMON WARD

"The team performed well in some of the games, but we had our difficulties throughout the season. A team leader was lacking throughout the season. I think the team will do just fine without us."

JEREMY PARSLEY

"We were much more competitive this year with all of the city and county schools. Scores compared from this year to last will show that. Next year's success is going to have to lay on the team's consistency."

Kenric Billingsley was giving it his all during a game against Baptist. At games end the Redskins defeated them 13-3. This was their largest margin of victory throughout the season, along with a 11-1 victory over Tech.

Anthony McKinney held the second best batting average on the team. His .306 and Ballard's .377 batting averages landed them in the .300 Club.

Jennifer Sparks was a leader both in athletics and academics. "She has a tremendous work ethic which is supported by her commitment and dedication during practice, meets and her off season," Ms. Oliver said.

DARRELL BROWN

Brown dominated the second leg of the 4x1, ran like the wind in the 55 meter dash, and picked up some variety with the long jump. Brown could be seen after school almost every day running practice laps on the track.

Marcus Borders, high jumper, assisted Selene Harvey by holding her blocks before the 400 meter dash. Harvey made it to the state finals with her 400 meter dash and also participated in the long jump and high jump events.

Joe Teague showed great form and winning style in the shot put event.

COREY PARCHMAN

One of the leaders on the team, Parchman ran the 100 meter dash in less than 10 seconds, contributed his speed to the state-bound relay team, and still managed to keep up his grades in advanced classes such as Biology 3-4.

Boy's Relay Team Goes State

What do Morristown, New Castle, and New Palestine High Schools have in common? They are all schools beaten by the men's track team on the way to the state finals. "We knew we could make it," commented Norman Nalls before the big state relay at North Central. "It was a hard journey."

The boys team began the season at the All Sport Indoor Track Classic held at the RCA Dome in early March. Tony Martin placed seventh in the long jump, only seven inches short of the 21'9" distance that won the event. Kenneth Edwards, Raymond Mays, and Gary Evers also competed at the Dome.

running the 800, the 1600, and the 3200. Sparks was grateful to her new coach, "Miss Oliver really helped me improve my time. She was a good coach." Selene Harvey, senior, ran laps around competitors in the 400 while also competing in both the high and long jump events.

"Manual Athletics- goin' out with a bang." That was the word from Corey Parchman, with a flat 10 seconds in the 100 meter dash, one of the best times in the state. Parchman ran alone in the dash and combined with Brown, Borders, and Nalls for a less than 50 second time in the relay. "I feel like we were blessed by God and a lot of hard work."

MICHELLE GANN

Veteran at her position of number one doubles, Michelle Gann helped train new comer Liza Besser. Michelle, sophomore, received runner-up in IPSAC.

The Few & The Proud

Small Team Meets Challenge

Whats not to love? Tennis is not only a fun exercise and a hard workout, but a very moving way to spend time. This season was a little tough since the players changed positions. Nicole Ashworth played singles after playing doubles with Michelle Gann last year. "I thought it was going to be a big challenge," Nicole commented, "In time, I got used to it."

The only handicap the team has is mental challenges. "The team tends to let emotions get in the way of success on the court," said the team's coach, Mrs. Newman-Smith. The hour and a half practice everyday really took a toll. The teams skill improved tremendously, with senior leadership from Mishanda Boyd and new energy from freshman Liza Besser. Their strongest point was team work and they all related very well, which is a very important.

The small team received big support. Parents and friends often stopped by home games to cheer on the Lady Skins. Other Manual Family spectators included Administrator Jerry Lucas, who took a quick look at Newman-Smith's gold mine at a mid-season game.

TARA AHLBRAND

After teaming up with Michelle Gann in doubles for the last two years, Nicole Ashworth took over number 1 singles. As the only person on the court, strategy played an important role in covering the added distance.

LIZA BESSER

Besser was a freshman who played number one double along side Michelle Gann. Liza thought playing tennis was fun because, "She made friends and it's fun to play against other schools."

TINA MATHIS

Mathis waited patiently for her opponent to return the ball so she could slam back. Mathis played number three singles.

Michelle Gann's hard work and hustle really paid off. She took control of her court.

Mishanda Boyd prepared for her victory. Warming up for her game was an every day thing for Boyd.

Small but growing Golfers are young but eager

Go fore par! Great advice, and exactly what the golf team did. Manual's golf team started the season with much promise and potential.

With a season record of one and eight, the golf team admitted defeat gracefully. Four of the eight losses were by approximately 10 strokes. With only five players, consisting of Brian Kriech, Wes Young, John Perkins, Chris Eastes, and Matt McDowell, the team did quite well. They were a young team and had a great season considering the loss of a few great players.

"We have not done as well as last year, because we are still a young team, and we lost two seniors, Brad Ford and Dustin Campbell, both were four-year players," stated Coach Craig.

They played an exciting game against Arlington and won leading to their first victory. Their key player for the season, Brian Kriech, has been in the 40's five times. "One of the season highlights would have to be Brian Kriech placing first at the city tournament," stated John Perkins.

With summer practice and new players their goal is to improve their scores .

Go, Fight, Win are the words of determination cheered by the cheerleaders every Friday night at Manual's football games. Cheerleaders worked hard this year.

They participated in workshops and competitions, as well as cheering at football and basketball games. They practice everyday after school from 2:45 to 5:00 except on days when they have games. "We stretch and run at the

Even though they're not on the field or court playing the game, cheerleaders have a goal and that's to keep the crowd happy. When Manual is losing, cheerleaders are there to keep the crowd smiling and motivated. "Some people don't consider cheering a sport but we practice and condition during the school year and all summer," said captain NaTasha Capler.

Motivation.

To some it is simply "good job" and "keep up the good work", but to Manual coaches it means much more.

There are many ways to motivate a team. Some coaches play tapes and show newspaper clippings. "I motivate my team by talking to them, showing them tapes and newspaper clippings of past games," said Mr. Pack Craig.

Other coaches motivate by deprecation. Several years ago Mr. Mike Swinford gave the morning announcements which said, "Last night the Lady Redskins lost to Tech High School by a score of 11 to 2. If the girls put out the same amount of effort tonight they will be beaten by the Howe Hornets." Because of this type of motivation the softball team won the game that evening.

Feedback is also a form of motivation. Mr. Ron Crane said, "I tell them the goals and expectations so that they can be accomplished."

Some coaches motivate with special awards such as: MVP, spirit award, leadership award, 300 club, praise, and food. Craig said, "When my team does a good job, I'll congratulate them. Then they are off to more hard work."

Numerous coaches have their own description of motivation. "Motivation to me is a desire or passion within a person that drives them towards a goal or many goals," said Crane.

Swinford said, "Starvation is a motivator. It motivates people to work. I strongly feel motivation works with Manual students. Our students need positive reinforcement and will work hard to please the coach if handled properly."

MELINDA RAY

Coach Sharon Shaw showed motivation by giving a pep talk to the track team in between events.

Coach John Riley showed motivation by helping Josh Ham exercise.

JENNIFER CHILDERS

Childers, with her best score of 62, said she made great friends with other golf players at a variety of schools including Broad Ripple.

CARRIE PENDER

Penders best score was 62. "Golf was a lot harder than it looks, it's more than just swinging a club."

With enough girls the team was finally able to compete in IPSAC.

Ms. Mc Neil has coached golf since it started in 1989.

Jaclyn Hull, also in the STAR Academy, participated on the team for the first few games.

JAMIE SPARKS

Being the only freshman on the team, Sparks enjoyed playing golf and making new friends.

Girls Golf in the Best

Swing into action

Girls golf competes in IPSAC

With few girls going out for the team, the past couple of years were tough for girls golf. This year was a complete turn around; there were five girls on the team and competing in IPSAC finally became a realistic goal.

Amanda Johnston, senior, said, "I've played golf for three years, and this season was the best. We had more team members and it was a lot more fun." Other team members were, Jennifer Childers, Jamie Sparks, Carrie Pender, and Jaclyn Hull. They practiced after school, and throughout the summer at Orchard Golf Center.

Golf may seem like the easiest sport in the world, because there is no running or physical contact involved, but sophomore team member, Pender disagreed. "Golf is harder than it looks, there's a lot more to it than just swinging a club," said Pender.

While the girls worked hard to brush up on their swing, they were also making new friends. "I made some friends at a few different schools, one of them being Broad Ripple," recalled senior, Jennifer Childers. "The girls worked very hard and because of that we were able to compete in the IPSAC Tournament," said Coach Sue McNeil.

Eland, a junior defensive end for the varsity football team, won MVP his sophomore year on junior varsity. He started varsity as a defensive end his junior year and filled the offensive lines when one of the players could not play.

Hard work

Making special team, stretching, working offense and defense and running boards were all part of the strenuous exercises that took place at an average football practice.

The football team practiced twice a day for two weeks before school started. On game day, the team practiced until 4:30, then ate dinner and practiced some more. The dinner usually lasted an hour and a half. The players usually ate pizza, talked, and goofed around before they practiced for the game. "I like the dinners because it gives me time to relax and just have fun before it's time to get serious," said Michael Eland.

Two freshmen participated on the varsity football team. In order for them to be on freshmen and varsity team they had to do double the work. "I put the freshmen on the varsity teams because of their demonstration of skill, poise, attitude and motivation," said Mr. Ron Crane.

The freshmen players had different views about the pressure of playing on both teams. "I feel pressure because the coaches expect me to work harder than the rest of the team," said Chris Vaden. "No, I don't feel pressure because I don't play as much on varsity as I do on the freshman team," said Charles Campbell.

Players were expected to have positive attitudes and give it their all. This is a must if they wanted to be on the team. "Come on out and just be ready to give it all you got," said Dean Vinson.

Dean Vinson, senior, danced by the training room during the football practice on Aug. 29 before the game against Arlington.

CHARLES CAMPBELL

Campbell, a starting receiver for the freshman and varsity football team, was the first freshman on varsity. In one of his games he scored three touchdowns in a row. In that game he was the only one to score any points.

BRIAN SCOTT

Scott, a senior, started on the varsity football team for three years. He was a candidate for homecoming king. Once he made three sacks in two different games and he managed to maintain good grades while playing.

Antwan Owens, tailback for J.V., scored a touchdown at the game against Arlington in his only J.V. appearance. Arlington won with a score of 6-36. He started varsity for the rest of the year. Football coach Mr. John Tremain said, "He has a lot of natural talent. He will be the future star at EMHS."

Norman Nalls, senior, escaped a tackle which helped the team win the game against Tech High School.

Terrell Morgan, junior, was deep in thought while he enjoyed his spaghetti dinner on Aug. 29 in the lunch room.

ROSALILIA ROMO

Rosalilia Romo, a junior on the team, said she worked hard to help her team win. She also kept good grades and was a motivated player who looked forward to playing volleyball next year.

LILLIAN WAFFORD

Lillian Wafford, a senior involved in STAR Academy, said that she loved playing volleyball because it was a very challenging sport. She maintained a very high GPA while still being a member on this team.

D.J. Johnson, Rosalilia Romo and Jeri Groce waited to return the volley during a match.

Erin Ash, Jennifer Huth, Kristy Trammel and Lillian Wafford focused on the ball.

JENNIFER HUTH

Jennifer Huth, a senior on the team, had a great personality and loved to support her team. She loved to play whether they won or lost. Jennifer thought volleyball was the best sport anyone could play.

Time For A Change

Girl's volleyball team takes it away

Almost winning IPSAC this year, the girl's volleyball team made tremendous improvements. With the record of 9 wins and 10 losses, the girls gave it their all to be the best they could be.

One key component that put the Redskins back in the winning circle was sticking together as a team. "This was a 100% turn around season," commented Michelle Gann. Other seasons were good but this would have to be the best season in the past three years.

Having good attitudes also played a big part in the improvements of the team. Talent and skill were definitely present and on the court for each and every game. One area the volleyball team lacked was audience participation.

"We all had the leadership skills."

-LILLIAN WAFFORD

Jeri Groce prepared to hit the ball over the net. She was always ready to spike the ball hard when it was her turn for action.

"Our spirits just needed some lifting," said Nicole Ashworth.

Overall, the season lifted the spirits of the team because of their accomplishments. "All in all, this was a better season because we got farther in the city tournament than we usually do," Lillian Wafford said.

Winners At Heart

Boys Tennis doing their best

You can't do it without them, but you can make it happen with them. Yes, the above mentioned is talking about the boys tennis team.

"Although they only won one game all season, most of their matches were very close, in which they worked very hard," said Coach Newman-Smith. The team was able to stick together through the hard time and still come out winners despite their losses. She said the team was very in control of their game. They would practice at Garfield Park every day after school for atleast two hours, said John Perkins. "Our training was very helpful for our endurance during the long matches," said captain Jeremiah Ingram.

"I felt that we all bonded well and had a good time."

- JEREMIAH INGRAM

He said that they could have done better if they had more focus on their training and preparation.

They didn't have a most valued player, but as a team, they have to win by points scored all together by each person in a match, "It's not about who scores the most points by themselves," added Smith. John Perkins said that Pete Sampras, a good tennis player, influenced him to try out for the team or to play a new sport with different people. "I feel that we all bonded pretty well and had a pretty good time," said team captain Ingram. In all the season was fair and with the lack of players and experience, they performed well," added Ingram. Just because the team didn't win as much as they would have liked to, they gained experience and team effort and are all winners at Manual.

CASSANDRA RADFORD

Derek Thompson, STAR Academy freshmen, liked playing tennis and had lots of practice and drill work for the upcoming meets.

JAMES GRACE

Grace, freshman, played as #2 doubles. He received freshman numerals, made it to the semi-finals and won the first round in the city tournament.

JOHN BRYANT

Bryant, freshman, played as #2 doubles. He received his freshman numerals, made it to the semi-finals and won the first round in the city tournament.

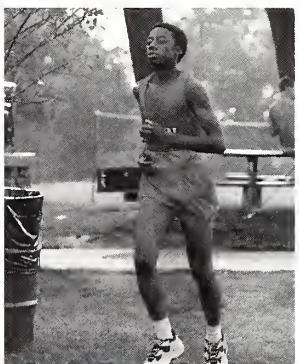

John Perkins, junior, was inspired by the performance of Pete Sampras, a pro-tennis player, to try out for tennis.

Jeremiah Ingram, STAR Academy junior and captain of the team, played hard and strived to help his team win.

RYAN VADEN

Vaden (freshman), was most improved and the number one runner. He displayed talents at Garfield Park against Lutheran.

JENNIFER SPARKS

Sparks was no new comer to the track team. Sparks brought a lot of team spirit to each meet. The spirit Sparks brought to the team made her a leader.

Jamie Sparks, Jennifer Sparks, Lisa Besser, Mr. Marcum, Nicole Davis, LaToya Sutton, Chonda Waugh, Sara Besser

Mr. Riley, David Johnson, Ryan Vaden, Josh Ham, Will Trimble, Joey Smith, Hannibal Harris, Orville Smith, Kenny Alston.

Sarah Besser led in IPSAC and was the #1 runner as a freshman.

JAMIE SPARKS

Sparks found energy deep down and within to finish the game in victory. Sparks' spirit was shown at each meet the Lady Redskin Cross-Country competition.

Josh Ham and Joey Smith kept the team hyped for their up coming meets. "They keep the whole team laughing," said Mr. John Riley.

Cross Country the Best

School Spirit

Cross Country goes crazy with spirit

Has school spirit gone too far? According to the boys and girls cross country teams it has not. Painting emblems that represent Manual on their faces, legs and arms was the way they express themselves while running.

All of the home games were at Garfield Park. Coach John Riley encouraged the boys to do their best, and Coach Sean Marcum believed that the girls showed a lot of dedication and they worked hard within themselves. "They have a lot of confidence in themselves, if a problem occurs, I help them and they help me," said Marcum, "They tell me what they want."

According to Riley, freshman Ryan Vaden was the best boys runner and the most improved. Will Trimble was the number two boys runner.

"I visualize on the bus and on the way there."

-HANNIBAL HARRIS

As for the lady redskins, Sarah Besser was the Most Valuable Player (MVP) and the number one girls runner. LaToya Sutton was the number two girls runner. "My coach always lets me know how I am doing and he lets me know what is expected of me and how to accomplish my expectations," said Besser.

The girls record was 5-7 and the boys finished their season with a record of 2-9. For the boys team, Will Trimble won the most improved, most dedicated and the most valued in a few of their meets.

LaToya Sutton won the best mental attitude award and she was a regional qualifier. "Everyone had a great time the whole season," said Trimble, "We all got along pretty well."

AUSTIN
SULTZER

Senior guard Sultzer was the leading scorer. He averaged 14 points a game and was one of the players to make the All City Team.

Boys end 15 year drought

They took city with a win against NWHS

Senior forward Jarron Coleman made the last buzzer shot that won the City Tournament Championship. On January 26 the basketball team defeated the Northwest Pioneers with the score of 54-53.

The team was led by Coach Pack Craig with the assistance of Coach Michael Bryant and Coach Cox. Because of this, there were four players that made the all city team. They were Austin Sultzer, Kevin Nance, Jarron Coleman and James Hayes. According to Craig, he convinced the team that there was no other team better than they were. "What I teach them is to be young men, good citizens and to be productive in society because there is life after basketball," said Craig. "Most importantly to have fun."

The Redskins had to play a couple teams in the sectional to make it to the Championship. The first game was against the Ritter Cardinals, which they won by 20 points, Cathedral, which they won by four points and the championship game against the Pioneers. The Redskins leading scorer was senior guard, Austin Sultzer, who averages 14 points a game.

Senior forward Joe Teague was the leading rebounder.

Senior guard James Hayes was the best defensive player. In the city game, junior guard Kevin Nance had 10 points, four rebounds and four assists. "My future plans is to go to college and to be an NCAA Division #1 basketball player at the University of Cincinnati," said Nance. On the other hand, senior guard James Hayes scored eight points, had four rebounds and about two-three assists. "I motivate myself by thinking positive thoughts," said Hayes.

Senior forward Joe Teague was the leading rebounder.

He also participated in track.

Senior guard Edriguez Smith averaged eight points a game. He said, "George Gervin and Magic Johnson influenced him in basketball because he looked up to them as he was growing up."

Senior center Dana Jones tipped the ball toward his teammates to score the first point in the Lutheran game. He also participated in track.

MARLANEA MATTHEWS

Girls team struggles through Newman-Smith's last season

The Lady Redskins were faced with many problems. With a rough start, the girls had to overcome many obstacles.

The major problem the girls were faced with was lack of team cooperation. Rose Bray said, "The team wasn't working together until we finally started to focus on Sectional." The team moral wasn't as positive as in the past.

Coach Newman-Smith decided this would be her final year as the Girls Basketball Coach. "I just need some time off and do a few things for myself," said Smith. Smith's best memory as Girls Basketball Coach was winning IPSAC in 1995 and beating Tech twice. She plans to coach boys and girls tennis.

Wrestling has been, for quite some time, one of the prides of Manual High School. The team has excelled in this competitive sport repeatedly. The 1997-1998 season was no exception, the team came out on top in the IPSAC Tournament. This was their eighth IPSAC title in nine years. Senior, Hannibal Harris, who was named Manual's "Outstanding Wrestler" said, "I take pride in that honor. It lets me know that I've accomplished something my senior year, and it sets an example to the younger wrestlers as a role-model."

FLY BY

Freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors wished they could have flown through this year.

Senior Jennifer Pitts said, "I found the year to be boring and nonimportant," except for the fact that she needed it to graduate so she could go to college.

Students thought if the classes were more fun that the year would go faster. Amy Crowe, junior, said, "It's going too slow, and it needs to be fun." Sophomores and freshmen had the same feelings in this aspect of the year. Athletes or people who did clubs and other activities wanted all but the part where their sport or activity was going on to fly.

Kristy Myers, sophomore, said, "I want the year to go by fast so I can hurry up and be a junior."

Josh Sisk, freshman, said, "It doesn't really matter to me."

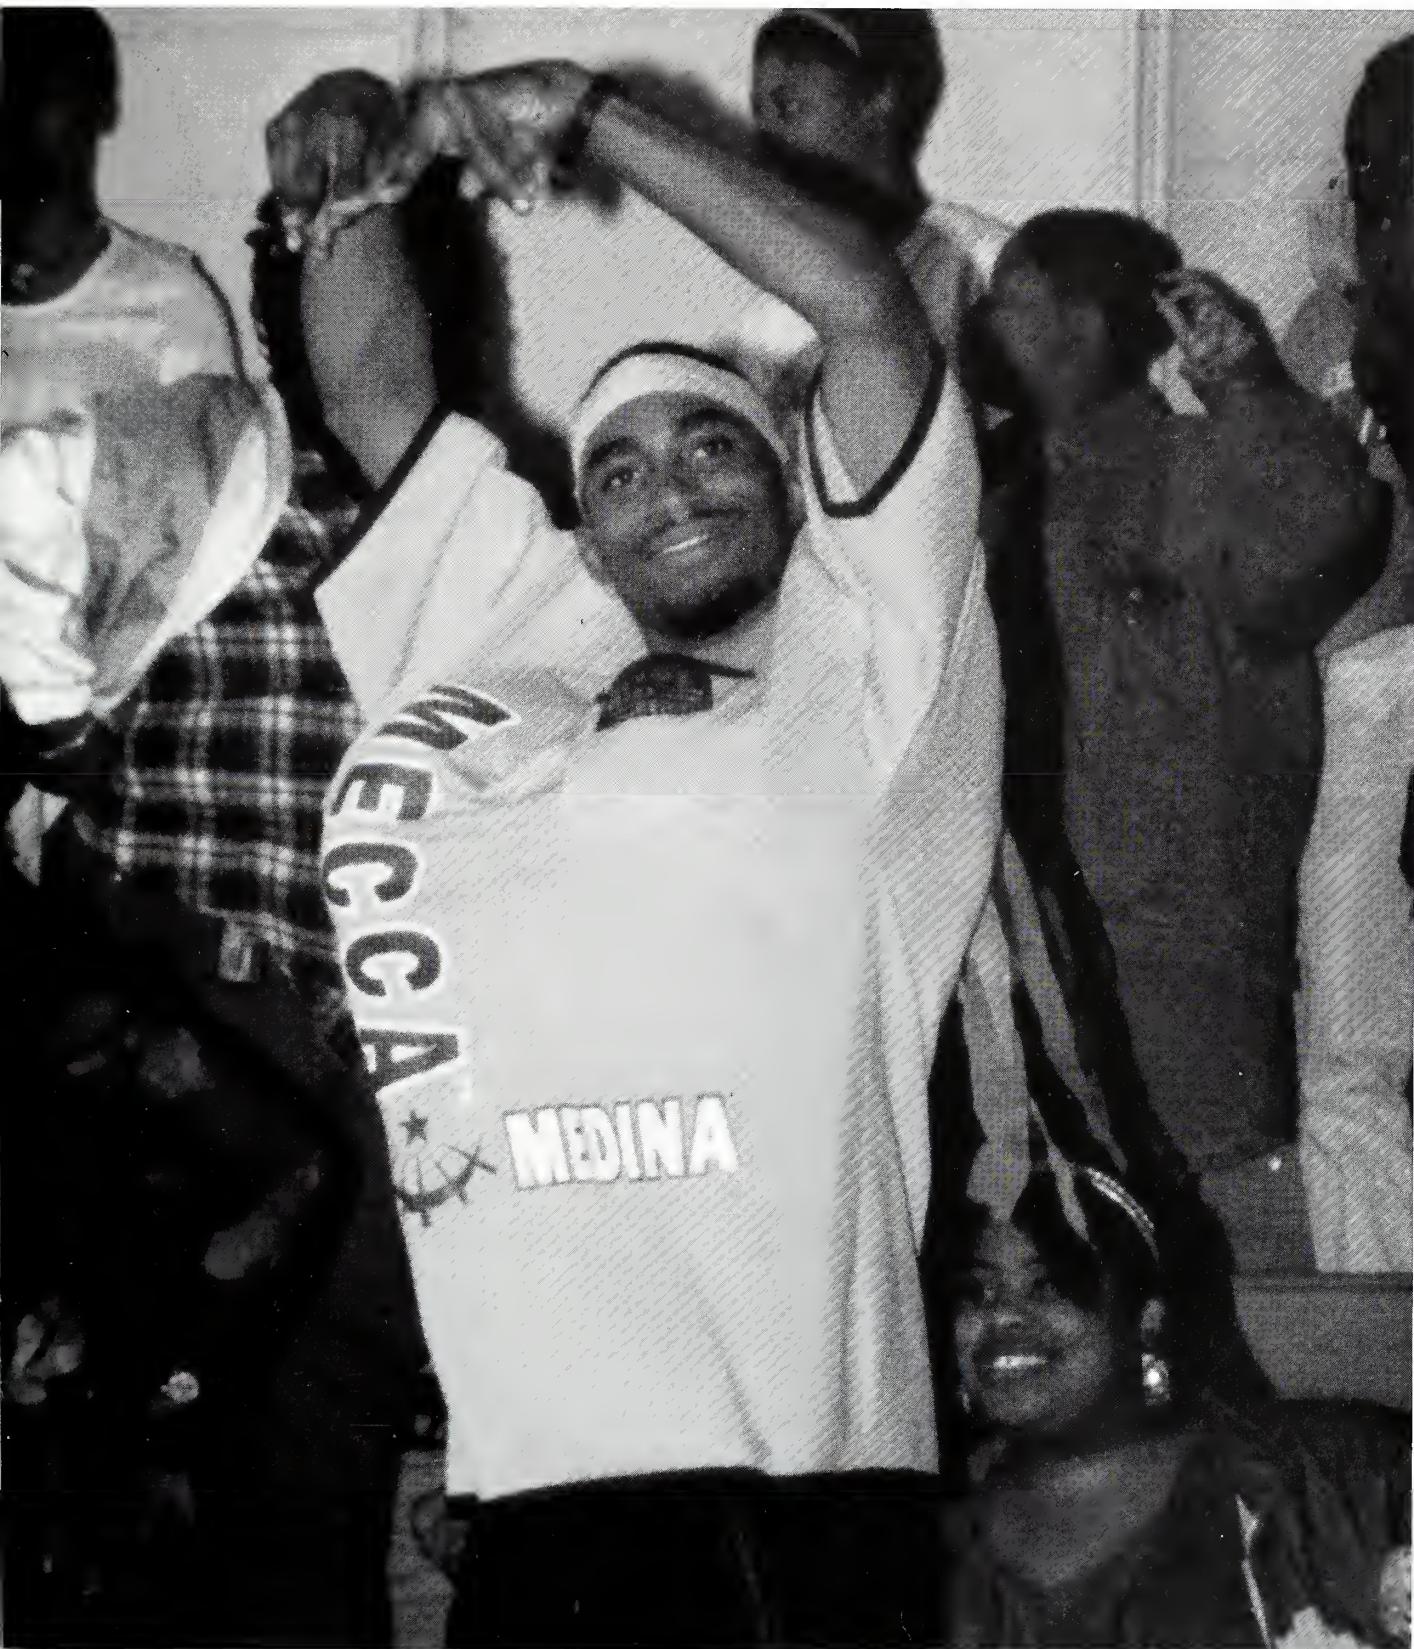

BRANDY SMITH

Junior, Latoya Spivey, was in journalism class proof-reading her story "Different isn't always bad."

Justin Pribyl, sophomore, was signing up for the 21st Century Scholars in October in the Mini Auditorium.

Michael Ray, freshman, read a sign on the wall and was distracted when a friend called his name.

James Hayes, senior, thought it would be funny to look like a girl at the pep rally, and so did everyone else in the month of Oct.

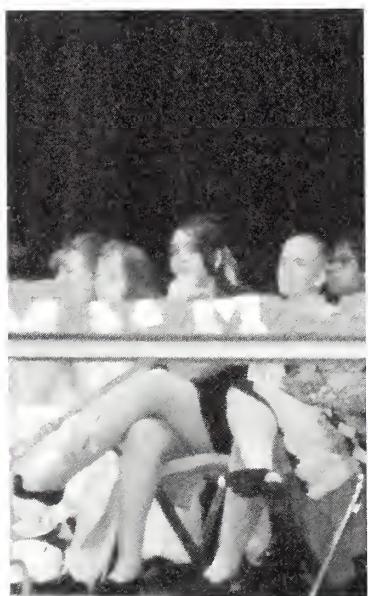

Marcia Calbert, a member of the National Honor Society, enjoyed her lunch on the trip to Purdue University sponsored by the society on Nov. 10.

Nichole Spells, a member of the National Honor Society, approached the entrance by the main office on her second week of her senior year.

Lillian Wafford, varsity volleyball player, waited for her turn to spike the ball to her opponents Heritage Christian on Aug. 28.

Seniors in the Best

Nichole Gill, a top ten League of Honor student, waited patiently for her name to be called at the League of Honor program during her junior year in May.

Ambi Torrence listened to her headphones via her mouth while daydreaming about what she will do after her Histlish class which she had second and third period during her junior year.

Christina Wilcox, Antonio Turner, and Chris Renner few of the students in the first Environmental Science class in the nation. They took notes before they went on their field trip to Eagle Creek.

Leo Johnson, colonel of the R.O.T.C., gave a speech about the R.O.T.C. Program on Sept. 19 for the flag day ceremony where he met the commander of the R.O.T.C. Program of 1965.

S.T.A.R.'s first graduates

"Please join me in giving a round of applause to the very first class of the S.T.A.R. Academy." These few words will replay over and over in the minds of the first graduating class of S.T.A.R.

Science, Technology Agriculture and its Resources (S.T.A.R.) is an agricultural and college bound magnet program. The program teaches that agriculture is not just about farming.

According to Mr. Robert Moses there will be a committee to decide if special badges may be worn on the graduates gowns during commencement. "By having the badges on my gown it would make me feel that my four years were spent in a great program," said April Loggins.

S.T.A.R. students will already stand out at graduation because they are a part of the academy. "It would feel good to stand out at graduation because you know that you are the first ones to do something like graduate from a program like S.T.A.R.," said Dean Vinson.

Students join the program for educational reasons, for example, to major in an agriculture related field and to be ready for college. Marcus Johnson said, "I joined the program because I thought it was a different way to look at Agricultural Education."

Students had different expectations when they joined. "My expectation of the S.T.A.R. Academy was to gain leadership skills, to be involved in hands-on activities and most of all to be prepared for college," Nichole Spells said.

As IPS' first agricultural magnet student's expectations were mostly met. "In a way my expectations were met. I wish there were more entrepreneurial skills, but I think I'll be able to make it in college," said Lillian Wafford.

S.T.A.R. tried to influence students to go to college by having field trips to a variety of universities and by having college representatives speak to them. "S.T.A.R. has really influenced me to go to college. Before I joined S.T.A.R. I didn't want to go to college, but because of the teachers telling us about going and what will happen if we don't go to college, now I want to go," said Ambi Torrence.

The majority of the students would rejoin if they had to do it all over again. But several would rather not. "If I had to do it all over again I wouldn't have joined S.T.A.R. because if you mess up, (come late to class, smart off to someone, or fail a class or a test) the teachers would always bring up the fact that you are in the S.T.A.R. Academy and that just puts more pressure on you," Vinson said.

There will be a special reception for the first graduating class of the program. According to Moses the reception will be held at the Asante Hall.

Moses hopes to have the media there to capture this special event so that the first class will have a graduation to remember. Leo Johnson said, "It would be cool to have the media there, because I like to be in the spotlight and represent S.T.A.R. at the same time."

Unpaid fun

Talking, laughing, having fun, and playing unpaid games are just some of the things that happened at the senior bowling party.

The senior class had a bowling party on Nov. 24 at the Expo Bowling alley from 9-12. This event was sponsored by Mrs. Kathy Newman-Smith and Mrs. Connie Everline.

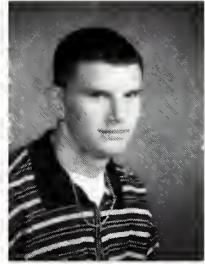

All the seniors had a good time eating, playing games, and just being with their senior friends. "I had a great time playing and hanging with my senior friends," said Lisa Grube.

Few of the students were upset because of the unpaid games. "The worst part of the party was when some students played without paying," said Tricia Catlett. "It made the senior class look bad."

The unpaid games were paid for by Newman-Smith. The students paid Newman-Smith back the money. "I was embarrassed that some of the senior class would give our school such a bad name in a public place," said Newman-Smith. "I was mad because some students felt they would take advantage of their advisors by slipping out on the payment. I also felt sorry for the students who could steal from someone and feel no remorse."

Robert Ratcliff had a good time during the yearbook Thanksgiving party. Each student brought in a side dish to have with a baked ham.

Juniors listened closely as Virginia Simms, John Federman, and Bob Ahearn, mentor representatives, talked to them about their responsibilities as a mentor.

Mindy Hall helped clear the tables after the Thanksgiving party in rm. 136 for publications.

Almost There

Juniors take the lead

Half dead juniors sat through what seemed like endless class periods. Wendy Tucker said, "I'm ready to get up out this bad boy." They're senior year seemed to get farther and farther away. Melissa Petree said, "I hate having to wait another year. There are some high points. Juniors looked forward to prom, and moving up in the ranks because the only ones who could still call them underclassmen were the seniors. Amber Craig said, "I like my junior year because I finally get to go to college presentations." Jessica Altum said, "Everything is the same to me except prom and getting to sit in the junior section at the pep rally's." Juniors finally have a chance to play a vital role that makes a difference, like being a part of junior council. Sarah Warren, a member of junior council, said, "I am proud to have the position..." There is one thing they all have in common; they are all almost where they want to be. They're almost there.

Nicole McCallister and Wendy Tucker participated in the new photojournalism class. They used the dark room in rm. 242 to develop black and white photographs.

Joe Sewell attended the Fall Sports Banquet on Nov. 13 in the cafeteria. He participated in football.

Brandy Smith, a member of the yearbook staff and MRTV staff, tried to finish the last part of her yearbook assignment before moving on to her next period class.

On his way to class Nick Shultz decided to stop and look at a story on Manual sports such as wrestling and football.

Only the Best

Sarah Warren was on junior council and participated with the MRTV staff was very attentive in Ms. Everline's math class.

Carlos Thrasher was preoccupied with more obvious things and didn't see the camera in time to cover the lens during passing periods.

What's Happening

Devotion, dedication, motivation, and participation is what's happening after school. Students in more than one club, teacher's sponsoring the activities, and even athletes participating in after school clubs.

Most students work around their sport and/or work schedule to participate in these activities. Students and teachers encourage other students to join their clubs. "Tell them if they want something done here at Manual, they need to join," said junior, Michael Eland.

Different groups hold special events during the year. According to Mr. David Phillips, he took the French club to Paris, France, where they visited the Cote Basque. "We have a variety of activities and they get many tangible rewards," said Phillips. Miss Jill Haughawout and the Leadership club have contributed their services to the United Way Youth Day of Caring and they have toy drives for children at Christmas time. "There are several ways to be leaders in a school," said Haughawout, "Our students exhibit some positive leadership qualities."

Students are encouraged to participate in more than one club. Senior Melinda Ray joined the Gospel Choir, MRTV, and the Spanish club. "We sing at different schools and get joy from giving praises to the Lord," said Ray.

Sponsors broadcast their message to their members by MRTV and memos. According to Cheerleading coach, Diane Cesarski, "Kids who try out should want to have fun because it is fun, but the fun comes from looking good out there in front of the crowd."

Graduates of 2000

Loyality, opportunities, responsibility, and the future.

Sophomores will go through many changes. They are no longer intimidated by high school and are more confident when walking through the halls. Destiny Keen said, " I like coming to Manual because it's closer to home and all my friends are here."

Tenth grade is when they start to earn their drivers licences and first jobs, when relationships start to mean something and when they should get serious about thier future. Diann Groover said, " I plan to go to college and major in law and math, then go to the military."

Sophomore year is a major turning point. They are taking on more responsibility and learning how to deal with them. Being the Class of 2000, they have a great responsibility. Christi Kivett said, "I feel that I have more responsibility now because I am a cheerleader and not afraid to show my school spirit."

A driver's license would not give him much more freedom, "Not at first, because my parents won't let me go running around a lot."

As the year progressed, sophomores found out that there is more to life than fun and games. That is, more homework and more responsibility. Life is considered more 'fun' because, at this time in their lives, they're finding out what the real world is all about. Jacklyn Hull said, "Things are different this year; we have more work and less free time."

From driving cars and dating, to taking major tests and studying hard; everything in their lives has changed. Travis Payton said, "A lot has changed. I'm legally able to drive and the tests are harder than they were last year."

New Beginnings

Class of 2001 start high school

New beginnings are the way freshmen think when they walk through high school doors. Lost and confused at first but after the confusion the environment becomes clear.

Eddie Wood helped Demetrice McKeller with his alphabet in the auditorium hallway.

Manual is going through new beginnings itself. Since select schools are over, many students from Manual are in the district. Freshmen at Manual have very mixed feelings about being here. "I was disappointed that I didn't get to choose my school because I wanted to go to Northwest," said Greg Ervin. However, it gives the community more opportunity to be involved with Manual and its students. "I'm glad I had the chance to go to Manual this year because all my friends go here and I'm happy to be in high school," said Amber Lane.

Mr. Hamner teaches freshman and sophomore English. "Mr. Hamner is a very concerned teacher, he jokes around and teaches at the same time," said Charles Campbell.

He participated weekly with the kindergartners. He told a story to Darrell who earned the privilege to visit the TeePee. Hamner is a well known teacher. He used to teach gym class in 1994.

Mr. Colin Hempel taught kindergartners how to play chess. He sponsored the chess club and taught chemistry.

Mr. Lewis helped the kindergartners practice for the Christmas concert. They sang various songs along with the high school choirs.

Erin Ash

You started life's journey 17 years ago, everything in the world you wanted to know,
and your journey progressed every day until you were off and on your own way.
Your journey's been filled with good times and bad flooded with memories happy and sad, and though it's not over you've come quite far which has helped to make you the person you are.

We wish you the best!

Love

Dear Lisa,

Well done. You have taken us down many different trails. But we are very proud of you. We love you very much. And we know you will have many more trails to travel. We wish you much luck in all that you do.

Love Mom and Dad

Jarrad,

May all your hopes and dreams come true. You've been such a joy to our lives and we're so proud of you. Congratulations!

Love Always Mom and Dad

Monica Kraning,

We are proud of all you have accomplished so far! Keep reaching for the stars!!

Love Mom and Dad

Sarah Russell,

You've done great. Keep your standards high. We're proud of you and we love you. Congratulations!

Special thanks to:

- Sara Bovee, Chris Eastes and Sarah Besser for the assistance in photography, you all were there in a pinch.
- Jeff Bell, our new and improved yearbook representative

The 1998 IVIAN was printed by Walsworth yearbooks, Inc. in Marceline Missouri, on monarch gloss stock. The endsheets were printed on white endleaf stock. It contains 144 (7 3/4 x 10) pages and 400 copies were printed. Spot color used was F187.

The cover is a gloss laminate with four color.

The entire book was paginated on two PowerPC 5620/120 and three PowerPC G3, with word processing done on four Macintosh IIci. These spreads were submitted by zip disk to Walsworth. The following software was used to produce copy and layouts: Adobe PageMaker 6.0 and ClarisWorks 4.0.

All body copy was set in 11 point Palatino and captions in 8 point Palatino. Headline font was 36 point Times and Helvetica. Underclass pictures and senior portraits were taken by Prestige Portraits of Indianapolis, Indiana.

Mindy Hall sat in yearbook figuring out what her story should be about. Yearbook members worked in teams of three in order to complete assignments. They were divided with a photographer, computer designer and writer.

Ms. Karen Oliver and Crystel Walker talked about the layout for Walker's pages in the yearbook. Students went through intensive editing sessions with the final phase going through Oliver.

Mr. Jerry Lucas and Kelly Browning dressed up as Santa and Elf and passed out candy canes to students before Christmas break. Sgt. Browning transferred to Broad Ripple High School after the break.

Cassandra Radford, Sarah Warren, Ravan Carter and Trisha Terman stood outside the gym and posed for the picture.

Hold On

Single file and yet together,
We have shared our greatest days.
And we carry common memories
In different ways.
Though we don't know where we're going,
We will cherish where we've been.
I want to cry.
I want to shout...
Want to let this feeling out
Hold on to the moment
Let the feelings show.
Hold on to the moment.
Never let it go.
I can picture us together
With my arms around my friends.
Just let me hold on to this moment,
Before it ends.
There was laughter. There were tears.
Through the dozen golden years.
